

What's New with NBFE?

Free Webinar on Business Practices of Forensic Mental Health Evaluation

One of the most common requests we get from our members is for information on how to build your forensic mental health evaluation practice. On Friday, 7/21/17, three successful forensic mental health evaluators will be answering your questions on how to build a successful forensic practice. Don't miss out on this invaluable opportunity to hear from the pros! This webinar is free to all CFMHEs, NBFE applicants and candidates, and all members of our partnering organizations (e.g., AMHCA, FMHCA, SMHCA, LPC-A, UMHCA, WMHCA, Vecchi International Group, Darsey, Black, & Associates, etc.). ### NBFE Congratulates New CFMHE Candidates!

In partnership with Darsey, Black, and Associates (DBA) of Hinesville, GA, NBFE recently held a certification workshop in Georgia. The following applicants took and passed the written exam. Please join us in congratulating them!

- Marcus Carter
- Candace Reed
- Jason Nietzsche
- Kari Barrett
- Shanda Taylor
- Annette Benneche

Also, Weedny Andre of Miami, FL passed the written exam on 5/10/17.

Learn to Administer and Interpret Psychological Tests!

In cooperation with Psychological Assessment Resources (PAR), NBFE is offering a 40-hour course designed to train forensic mental health evaluators on how to administer and interpret a wide range of psychological tests commonly used in the forensic mental health profession. Training starts in August 2017. Click here for more info.

The Relevance of Mental Health Experts in Sexual Offense Cases

NBFE President and Founder Dr. Norman Hoffman recently received an email from John Seldon, NBFE's esteemed advisory board member and prominent attorney:

"I thought I'd point out to you a case that came out of the 11th Federal Circuit Court of Appeals (Atlanta), last week. It might serve to show the value of forensic testimony in the course of your program materials. A very interesting explanation the extrapolation of future counseling needs for we 'lay people' in the field, in the context of restitution to be paid by a sexual offender." ## NBFE Wants You!

A top priority for 2017-2018 is for NBFE to increase its membership. We have found that the most effective way to increase membership is to develop partnerships with professional associations, agencies, group practices, and organizations in the mental health profession. If you are a member of a local, state, or national organization, we're calling on you to help us forge a partnership with your organization.

There are tremendous benefits to partnering with NBFE, such as discounted certification fees and access to free training and resources for members of your organization. To read more about partnership opportunities, click here.

Become an NBFE Contributing Member for 2017!

NBFE works hard to fulfill our mission of providing quality training, certification, and advocacy for forensic mental health experts. As a not-for-profit organization with volunteer staff, we rely exclusively on the support of our continuing members. Please consider making a $60 to donation to NBFE, which will earn you the title of "contributing member for 2017" and all the benefits associated with that status. Click here to learn more.

A Note from the Executive Director

It is an honor and a privilege to serve NBFE and all of my colleagues who are a part of this fellowship. I'm always open to feedback, ideas, and contributions of our members. Feel free to contact me at Aaron@nbfe.net whenever the need arises.

Kindest regards,
